READING COMPREHENSION

You are going to read a short text about an explorer. Read the text, then choose a, b, c or d for each of the questions 1–6.

Robert Falcon Scott (1868-1912)

Robert Falcon Scott, known to his family and friends as Con, was born on 6th June 1868 in Devon, England. His family were quite well-off, and Con followed the family tradition when he became a sailor at the age of thirteen. In 1887-8 he finished his training at the Royal Navy College at Greenwich, where he passed all his courses with flying colours.

Scott is famous for his two expeditions to the Antarctic. His first expedition came about by chance, when he met Sir Clements Markham in London. Markham was raising money for an Antarctic expedition. He knew Scott from when they were in the West Indies together, and he encouraged him to apply for the position of leader of the expedition.

In 1901, Scott set sail in the 'Discovery'. The main aim of this expedition was to carry out scientific research. This expedition included Ernest Shackleton, and it was this experience that later made Shackleton determined to go back to the Antarctic. Members of the expedition studied the emperor penguins on Cape Crozier. Naturalists and geologists collected samples from the mountains and glaciers in the region, and Scott and his team travelled further south than anyone else before them. However, they didn't reach the South Pole, so the race to get there was still wide open. They returned to Britain in 1904. By 1907, both Scott and Shackleton were planning expeditions to the South Pole. They were going to be rivals in the race to get there first. In 1909, a commander from the US navy, Robert Edwin Peary, and his African-American companion, Matthew Henson, reached the North Pole. Because of their achievement, explorers around the world became even more interested in being the first to reach the South Pole. In 1909, Shackleton failed to do this, only getting to within 97 miles of it. The following year, Scott set off for Antarctica. When he reached Melbourne, Australia on 12th October 1910, he found a telegram from a Norwegian explorer, Amundsen, which explained that he was also trying to get to the South Pole.

Amundsen and his team reached the South Pole first. Scott got there too, but the weather became bad on his return journey, and he and the men who were with him died.

Scott and his men didn't have time to prepare properly, and the expedition was not successful. Amundsen was more experienced in using dog-sleds and was more used to the weather conditions than Scott. Scott wrote, when he knew he was dying: 'We took risks, we knew we took them; things have come out against us, and therefore we have no cause for complaint'

You are going to read a text about how three female musicians started playing together. Seven sentences have been removed from the text. Choose from the sentences A–H the one which fits each gap (1–7). There is one extra sentence which you do not need to use.

Mixing Cultures and Music

My name is Ai Lin. My parents came here from China before I was born. They were immigrants, and they work here as doctors. I have an older sister, who used to play the violin. My parents tell me that, almost as soon as I could walk, I took my sister's violin and began to play it. (1) ____. My sister, on the other hand, made a terrible noise on it. When I was three, I began having violin lessons and learned how to play children's songs. (2) ____ I really loved playing, and practised regularly. My sister stopped playing the violin and learned to play the piano instead. She plays very well, actually, and sometimes joins us on stage.

I met Makame at secondary school. She came here from Zanzibar when she was six. She was a musician too. (3) ____. One evening after school I went home with her and she played some traditional music from Zanzibar, called taarab, while her mother sang. I loved it! Makame and her mum taught me some songs, and I taught them some traditional Chinese songs.

A year after Makame and I first met, Gul arrived at our school. Her parents are Turkish. Gul also played the violin and the oud, a really old Arabic stringed instrument. We were in the same class and the three of us were always together. (4) ____. We taught each other traditional songs and melodies from our different musical backgrounds, and soon we were combining the music and styles. Sometimes the results weren't very good, so we worked on getting the melodies right.

(5) ____. The whole school listened to us very quietly. There was a pause after we finished playing.
(6) ____. We thought they didn't like us. The silence seemed to last for a long time, but it was probably less than a second! Then everyone started clapping. We were very relieved.

After that, people began asking us to play in different places, and we experimented. Now we play modern music, world music, or fusion, with me on the violin, Makame on the qanun and Gul on the oud. We didn't know what we were going to do when we left school but, in the end, our decision was made for us. (7) ____ After that, we became famous. Now we are professional musicians, travelling the world, and making our living from doing something we really love – making music!

- A We were asked to play at the Womad Festival in Britain, which is well-known internationally.
- B She played the violin and a traditional instrument from her country, the qanun, which is a bit like a flat box with lots of strings.
- C The year before we left school, we played together at an end-of-year concert.
- D They said I made the instrument sound the way it should.
- E The sultans of Oman used to rule Zanzibar and taarab is influenced by African, Arab and Asian music.
- F I remember that my favourite was 'Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star'.
- G The three of us felt awful!
- $\ensuremath{\textbf{H}}$ We did our homework together and practised our music together.

READING COMPREHENSION

You are going to read a short biography of Michelangelo. For questions 1–6, choose the answer (a, b, c or d) which you think fits best according to the text.

ll Divino

Michelangelo di Lodovico Buonarroti Simoni was born on 6th March 1475 at Caprese, in Tuscany, Italy. He came from a wealthy family. Michelangelo's mother died when he was about five years old, after the family had moved to Florence.

Michelangelo's father soon realised that his son was very intelligent, and sent him to learn Latin and grammar. He hoped that Michelangelo would become a successful businessman, keeping the Buonarroti family in its social position, and making it as rich as it had been in the past. Michelangelo's father was therefore furious when, at the age of thirteen, Michelangelo told him that he had agreed to study at the workshop of the painter, Domenico Ghirlandaio. He spent a year there learning to paint before he went to study at the sculpture school in the Medici gardens. The Medici were the most powerful people in Florence at the time. So when Michelangelo was invited to live with them, he started meeting artists and poets. It was also during this period that Michelangelo was secretly studying anatomy.

By the time he was sixteen, Michelangelo had produced at least two sculptures which showed his personal style. When he was twenty, he made a Cupid out of marble which was sold as an ancient piece. The man who bought it soon found out that he had been tricked, but the statue was so impressive that he invited the artist to Rome. It was during his time in Rome that Michelangelo created the Pieta (1498-1500). It is still in Saint Peter's Basilica and is believed by many to be the greatest sculpture ever created. Michelangelo always believed that, inside a piece of marble, a statue already existed. His job was to set it free. Michelangelo returned to Florence and created the enormous statue of David, which is still probably the most famous statue in the world. Unlike previous sculptures of David, Michelangelo's statue shows David before he goes to fight Goliath; his expression shows his thoughts and feelings about the battle he is going to face. Michelangelo was then asked to paint the ceiling of the Sistine Chapel. It took four years to complete. He painted standing up, with his head back and his arm above his head. This caused the artist great pain and even started to change the shape of his body. However, when the ceiling was finished, Michelangelo was seen as the greatest artist in the world.

By the time Michelangelo died in 1564, he had created extraordinary works as a painter, sculptor, architect, poet and engineer. He had truly lived up to the name he had been given: 'Il Divino' – the divine* one.

READING COMPREHENSION

You are going to read a magazine article about the Roma. Choose from the list A–H the most suitable heading for each part (1–7) of the article. There is one extra heading that you do not need to use.

The Roma

(1) ____

The Roma are an ethnic group that can be found all over the world. Non-Roma used to call them 'gypsies', because they wrongly believed that they originally came from Egypt. Now we know that they came from the Indian sub-continent. It is thought that they began moving to Europe and North Africa about a thousand years ago.

(2) _ _ _

Most Roma speak both a Romani dialect and the language of the country they live in. There are five main categories of Roma. Most of them belong to the Kalderash, who mainly live in North America and central Europe. The Gitanos or Cale live in Spain, Portugal, North Africa and southern France. The Sinti consider themselves a different ethnic group, although they also come from India. Traditionally, they worked in circuses or travelling shows. The other two groups are the Romnichal, who live mainly in Britain and North America, and the Erlides (or Yerlii), who are found in south-eastern Europe and Turkey.

(3) ____

Roma music can be heard in the works of classical composers such as Franz Liszt and Johannes Brahms. Django Reinhardt, the jazz guitarist, acknowledged the influence of 'Gypsy' Jazz on his music, and there is no doubt about the effect that Roma music has had on world music.

(4) _ _ _

No one knows exactly why the Roma left India, although there are many theories. One is that they were soldiers, while another suggests that they were taken as slaves by the peoples who attacked northern India. The first written text referring to the Roma dates from the 9th century when, in the Byzantine Empire, Saint Athanasia gave food to 'foreigners called the Atsinganoi' (the Greek name for the Roma) near Thrace.

(5) _ _ _

Wherever the Roma went, people treated them badly because they were scared of them. The Roma were different: they had dark skin, unusual clothes, and a travelling lifestyle. In Romania the Roma were slaves for 500 years, until 1864. During the Second World War, the Nazis killed between 200,000 and 800,000 Roma. The exact number is not known, and probably never will be.

(6) _ _ _

The European Roma Rights Centre (ERRC) and Amnesty International work to protect the Roma. They deal with the many cases reported to them every year, particularly problems with housing. Traditionally, the Roma were travellers but, in the modern world, fewer Roma live this way. They settle, but local people are still suspicious of them.

(7) _ _ _

The European Union now has more than 10 million Roma citizens, but only two of the 785 MEPs (Members of the European Parliament) in 2007 were Roma. They were Livia Jaroka and Viktoria Mohasci, who are both Hungarian. There is a long way to go before the Roma have equality with the rest of the world.
